

How Does It Work?

Throughout the year, your monthly energy bill fluctuates. Seasons change, heating and cooling costs rise and fall, and energy use varies. This can make it difficult to manage your expenses. That's why MidAmerican Energy offers budget billing.

Our Budget Billing Plan is a free program designed to ease the fluctuation of your monthly bills. Instead of paying your actual energy costs each month, you pay an averaged amount with no unexpected surprises.

While the Budget Billing Plan is not a discount program and offers no savings or lower rates, you do get the convenience of a more predictable bill.

MAKE BUDGET BILLING WORK FOR YOU

- If you recently moved or your usage patterns have changed, be sure to discuss the budget amount with one of our representatives to ensure it reflects your general energy use.
- You will find your budget balance on your bills. Please contact us if you have any questions or concerns.
- Read your budget billing messages every month so you know if a change is coming.

KEEP YOUR ENERGY COSTS DOWN

Weather, price and usage impact your energy costs and therefore, your budget bill amount. MidAmerican Energy is dedicated to helping you reduce your use, while keeping your costs as low as possible. Visit www.midamericanenergy.com/ee for no- and low-cost energy saving ideas.

CALCULATING YOUR BUDGET BILL AMOUNT

We calculate your average monthly bill amount based on projected energy prices and the cost of the previous 24 months of usage at your home or business. If you just moved in or it's new construction, you may want to wait until you have your own usage history before enrolling in the plan. However, if you want to start the Budget Billing Plan right away, we can estimate a budget bill amount for you.

REVIEWING YOUR BUDGET BILL AMOUNT

You can choose to have your budget bill amount reviewed every three months or every six months. Eligible residential customers also can choose an annual review. That means the amount you pay each month may change as many as four times a year or as seldom as once a year.

During the review process, we will recalculate your average monthly cost, take projected energy costs into consideration, and factor in your budget balance – the difference between the amount you've been billed and the cost of the energy you've used. Periodic reviews of your Budget Billing Plan help to ensure your payments are on track with your actual usage. Occasionally changing your budget bill amount helps us ensure you do not have an unnecessarily large budget balance.

You have the option to have your budget balance added or subtracted from your current amount due at the end of 12 months instead of rolling it into the budget calculation. If you are interested in this option, please call one of our associates.

YOUR MONTHLY BILL

You can keep track of how the budget bill amount compares to your actual usage by reviewing the Budget Billing Plan section of your bill. For example:

BUDGET BILLING PLAN
E Your budget bill amount was reviewed and changed to $154 effective with your next bill. Your Budget Billing Plan will be reviewed periodically and you will be notified of the results through a bill message.	Budget Bill Amount $177.00 A

	Total Current Costs $133.63 B
	Difference Applied to Budget Balance $43.37 CR C
	Budget Plan Summary
	Current Month Balance After Payment $129.32 CR
	Previous Month Balance $85.95 CR
	Budget Payments Billed to Date $1062.00
	Energy Costs to Date $907.42 D
During this budget plan year you have been billed $129.32 more than your energy costs. This includes $25.26 which was your year-end budget plan balance.

- A Budget Bill Amount – Your budget billing charges for the current month.
- B Total Current Costs – Your actual energy charges for the current month.

- D Compare the total amount billed under the Budget Billing Plan with the total amount you would have been billed otherwise. A difference is normal, and is part of how budget billing works. (Note: This amount includes the previous year-end budget plan balance.)
